COMMERCIAL AVAILABILITY REQUEST

-- PUBLIC VERSION --

December 1, 2008

Mr. R. Mathew Priest

Chairman, Committee for the Implementation of Textile Agreements

Office of Textiles and Apparel, Room H3100

U.S. Department of Commerce

14th and Constitution Ave., NW

Washington, DC 20230

Re: Commercial Availability Request Under Section 203(o)(4) of the Dominican Republic-Central America-United States Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act

Dear Mr. Priest,

On behalf of Hansoll Textile, Ltd. ("Hansoll"), and pursuant to Section 203(o)(4) of the Dominican Republic-Central America-United States Free Trade Agreement ("CAFTA-DR") Implementation Act and the Modified Final Procedures set forth in 73 Fed. Reg. 53200 (September 15, 2008) ("Final Procedures"), Sorini, Samet & Associates, LLC ("SS&A") requests that the fabric described herein ("subject fabric") be added to the list in Annex 3.25 of CAFTA-DR in an unrestricted quantity.

The subject fabric is nearly identical in construction to the fabric determined by CITA to be unavailable in commercial quantities in a timely manner from a supplier in the CAFTA-DR countries ("prior petition"), of which the effective determination was published in the Federal Register on September 15, 2008 (73 Fed. Reg. 53199)¹.

Hansoll had intended to use the prior petition fabric in its fall 2008 production, but was informed by the buyer of a need to change the fiber content and to add an additional coloration to the prior petition fabric specifications.

As a result of again exploring the CAFTA-DR market in search of suppliers of the subject fabric, SS&A and Hansoll have determined the subject fabric is not available in commercial quantities in a timely manner from a supplier in the CAFTA-DR countries. It is following a good faith and documented effort to secure the fabric that Hansoll and SS&A submit this commercial availability request.

I. Detailed Product Description

The fabric is a raschel knit open work crepe, which has a unique “blistered” face requiring each of the constituent yarns to be fed separately, with small, regular open-work interstices, representing about 15 percent of the total surface area. The fabric is a blend of cotton, nylon, and spandex.

III. Due Diligence

SS&A made inquiries to potential suppliers of the subject fabric in the United States and the CAFTA-DR countries. The list of companies was compiled (1) through Hansoll's experience doing business in the CAFTA-DR region, (2) through SS&A's and Hansoll's experience in two prior commercial availability petitions addressing similar fabrics, (3) through the 2008 Davison Salesman Blue Book, and (4) through the contact mechanisms of U.S. and Central American textile and apparel trade associations. These efforts did not result in identifying any parties that were able to supply the subject fabric in the time and quantities required by Hansoll.

The due diligence process resulted in a communication of initial interest from one U.S. company, Fab Industries Corp. Two samples were provided to Fab Industries Corp, and various communications were exchanged between Hansoll and Fab, and between SS&A and Fab, to try to determine the ability of Fab to actually supply the fabric subject to this commercial availability request. Since Hansoll is a company based in Seoul, South Korea, and its officials have limited English language skills, SS&A initially conducted the business-to-business communications with Fab on behalf of Hansoll. In addition, SS&A assisted Hansoll in conducting the necessary business-to-business dialogue as required under CITA's Final Procedures.

Through a direct inquiry, Hansoll sought to clarify, and asked for specific information about, Fab's ability to supply the printed subject fabric. Hansoll also requested information on potential subcontractors if Fab would not undertake the printing itself. Fab responded to Hansoll that the information previously supplied to SS&A "had not changed". As way of background, in the course of due diligence communications with SS&A, Fab had indicated that it does not have printing capabilities and does not accept responsibility for the process. Hansoll repeated its inquiry as to whether Fab could supply the subject fabric, but Fab did not respond.

Further, Hansoll requested from Fab further clarification and specific information about its equipment and its ability to undertake the process of knitting with cotton yarns. As way of background, in the course of due diligence communications with SS&A, Fab had indicated that fabrics of this type are generally made with man-made yarn rather than spun cotton yarn in consideration of the greater (tensile) strength of man-made yarns. Fab had communicated that the knitting speeds at which Fab operates its machinery would put stresses on the cotton yarns needed, and would lead to numerous yarn breaks. Fab, in the same reply to Hansoll referenced above, stated only that the information provided to SS&A "had not changed." Hansoll sent one more inquiry as to whether Fab could supply the subject fabric to specifications, but Fab did not respond.

Ultimately, Fab was unresponsive to Hansoll's repeated inquiries regarding Fab's technical capabilities and capacity to produce the subject fabric. It was also clear from the exchanges that Fab did not have the ability to print, and would not take responsibility to supply a printed fabric. Therefore, a viable offer to supply does not exist.

The following information sets forth the companies and associations that were contacted with regard to whether they, or their members, could supply the subject fabric within the specifications described in Section I of this submission. Confirmations of the contacts are provided within Appendix I of the confidential version of this submission. All communications were conducted via e-mail unless otherwise noted.

Reply and Date: October 22, 2008: Myers replied that fabric sample was received and then sent to its research and development department in North Carolina to be analyzed. Myers also replied that he needed to determine the availability of yarns.
Reply and Date: October 24, 2008: SS&A responded by asking if Fab had completed its analysis of the fabric.
Reply and Date: October 24, 2008: Myers replied that Fab can make the fabric, but it has not yet been able to find a yarn supplier to quote prices, and asked if SS&A knew why yarn suppliers would be hesitant to provide this information.
Reply and Date: October 24, 2008: SS&A responded that it does not have information on yarn suppliers and asked Myers to confirm Fab's ability to acquire all necessary inputs as soon as possible.
Reply and Date: October 27, 2008: SS&A provided Myers with more detailed specifications on the fabric, including numbers of colors, patterns, and the proportions by weight between piece-dyed, yarn-dyed, and printed.
Reply and Date: October 27, 2008: Myers asked who would be responsible for the printing.
Reply and Date: October 27, 2008: SS&A responded that it does not know who could do the printing, and asked if the additional specifications previously provided were helpful.

Reply and Date: October 27, 2008: Myers replied that Fab does not do printing, so it assumes the client would have the fabric printed after delivery.

Reply and Date: October 29, 2008: SS&A made clear that Fab would need to deliver a finished product, including the printing, and asked for confirmation that Fab can deliver the finished subject fabric to the specifications, and restated the order is to begin Fall 2008. SS&A also asked for an update on Fab's ability to acquire the yarns.

Reply and Date: October 29, 2008: Myers replied that Fab has no printing capacity, and it can manufacture the dyed fabric only. Myers asked for a sample of the printed fabric.

Reply and Date: October 30, 2008: SS&A responded that it will send a printed fabric sample immediately. SS&A also asked Myers to confirm Fab's ability to supply the subject fabric by providing detailed information about its past production of the fabric and its production capacity and machinery.

Reply and Date: October 31, 2008: Myers replied with details of its past production of a similar product, and information of its yarns suppliers, fabric price, and production timetable (which is outside the parameters of the order specifications).

Reply and Date: November 4, 2008: SS&A informed Myers that Fab's offer is not viable due to a lack of inability to meet the required timeframes, the capacity to produce the required quantities, and the inability deliver a finished, printed product.

Reply and Date: November 5, 2008: Myers acknowledged SS&A's response.

Reply and Date: November 18, 2008: Hansoll contacted Myers to ask for specific information on Fab's capabilities and capacities to produce the subject printed fabrics. Hansoll asked if Fab would do the printing, and asked for information on potential subcontractors. In addition, Hansoll asked specifically if Fab had the technical capacity to produce the fabric with cotton yarn, as Fab indicated its only experience is with rayon. Hansoll made clear that breaks in the cotton yarn would result in holes in the fabric, rendering it unusable in production.

Reply and Date: November 18, 2008: Myers responded to Hansoll's by stating Fab had given all available information to Hansoll's representatives, and nothing further had changed, and that Fab and Hansoll need not further communicate.

Reply and Date: November 19, 2008: Hansoll again inquired whether Fab is able to supply the subject printed fabric, stating to that it would like to give Fab due consideration.

Reply and Date: No further response from the company.

IV. Substitutable Products

Fabrics that do not incorporate the yarn types described in Section I of this submission or are knit on a machine different from that described are not substitutable for the fabric. The aesthetics – a soft hand and appearance – require the yarns and machinery specified herein. The appearance – a complicated (18 bar) crepe-like “blister” stitch with regular open work interstices, is essential. This is the “look” that Hansoll has contracted to meet the order requirements of its customers.

If you have any questions or require further information with regard to this request, please contact Andrew Samet or Keith Jenkins at (202) 248-5090, or asamet@ssa-dc.com or kjenkins@ssa-dc.com.
